

Retired Business Persons Needed

Put Your Expertise to Work for a More Sustainable North Carolina

Do you have a science, engineering or manufacturing background? Interested in helping businesses and industries improve resource efficiency and reduce waste? Waste Reduction Partners (WRP) is seeking part-time, retired volunteers to perform energy, water, and waste reduction assessments at businesses, industries and institutions throughout North Carolina.

Who We Are...

WRP is a volunteer technical assistance team working with North Carolina businesses and institutions to reduce utility costs, improve environmental performance and promote economic competitiveness. Waste Reduction Partners is a part of the North Carolina state program to provide technical assistance to business enterprises.

What We Do...

Assessors provide on-site consultations, cost analysis, and technical assistance on energy, water and waste management challenges.

Who We are Seeking...

Volunteers with a background in business, science, engineering or industrial operations. Good communication and computer skills are required.

What We Offer...

Flexible part-time schedules, stimulating assignments tailored to your interests and the opportunity to think and work within your community. A stipend is provided, and expenses are paid.
